

New York Stock Market

New York September 10.—Very little remained today of the strength and optimism which attended yesterday's late market on publication of the bull-bear report. The average level was about at the closing bid in the early afternoon but gave way to a slight depression.

In the small hour call money rose to 1 1/2 per cent, the highest rate of the year, prices fell to the lowest of the year, but without any increase of activity. The market was generally quiet, with the exception of the opening and closing periods.

Some of the speculative favorites were active, but the market was generally quiet, with the exception of the opening and closing periods.
